WORDS FROM LIBERTY

Are you ready for big change in your life? Many of the prophecies that the prophets and prophetesses are giving today are “get ready for change—change is coming—do not fear the doors that are closing because new doors are about to open. You are going to be uprooted and replanted where your destiny will become reality.”

To be perfectly honest, that is a little scary to me because I like certain things just the way they are. I tend to create nests and comfort zones that I dearly love. However, I really do my best to be flexible if God has me in His sights for change. God does change things to improve our lives, but He also changes things to improve the working out of His Kingdom plans and purposes.

The world is always wanting to change Christians—“don’t be so religious—lighten up—get with the program—come on, have a little more fun—don’t be so spiritual.” The things that the world asks you to change will usually mean giving up your righteousness in Jesus Christ. Change in Christ always means moving towards something better. In Acts 3:19 (Amplified) Peter said to the unbelieving Jews, “So repent (change your mind and purpose); turn around and return [to God], that your sins may be erased (blotted out, wiped clean), that times of refreshing (of recovering from the effects of heat, of reviving with fresh air) may come from the presence of the Lord.”

When people thronged out to see John the Baptist preach about the coming Messiah and to be baptized in the Jordan River, John preached about repentance, change, and forgiveness of sins. John said this in Mark 1:7-8 (The Message): “The real action comes next: The star in this drama, to whom I’m a mere stagehand, will change your life. I’m baptizing you here in the river, turning your old life in for a kingdom life. His baptism—a holy baptism by the Holy Spirit—will change you from the inside out.”

How do you feel about having your entire life changed in such a manner? Change means to alter, modify, amend, replace, and to revolutionize. Change means to become something different, to be transformed. John the Baptist, Jesus Christ, and the Apostle Paul were all speaking of revolutionary change in the lives of believers. In Job 14:14, where other versions speak of a change in status, the NIV Bible speaks of a “renewal to come.” Cooperating with godly change can bring revolutionary renewal to your life right now!

The Bible says that God never changes; He is the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow. Yet His character is of such infinite variety, we don’t always understand it is still Him even when things seem to be changing all around us. When God does something other than what we expect, we often cringe nervously because it seems that God is changing the rules of the game on us. We are creatures of habit and can find it difficult to flow smoothly in the changes God brings forth in our lives.

In Daniel 2:20-22 (NKJV) we read that Daniel said, “Blessed be the name of God forever and ever, for wisdom and might are His. And He changes the times and the seasons; He removes kings and raises up kings; He gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those who have understanding. He reveals deep and secret things; He knows what is in the darkness, and light dwells with Him.”

Change is inevitable if we want to move beyond where we now are. It is difficult to solve today's problems and meet tomorrow's challenges with yesterday's understanding. In Luke 8, Jesus radically changed the demon-possessed man's life. Verse 37 tells us: "Then all the people of the region of the Gerasenes asked Jesus to leave them, because they were overcome with fear. So he got into the boat and left." There was a tremendous change in this man's life for the better, yet the people were afraid of the One who brought the change.

How do we keep from being fearful when He changes everything around us? We must trust and believe that He is working in us for better things rather than trusting our own human understanding. Change can be glorious when we do not fear it. There is nothing to worry about except your comfort zone, and how can a comfort zone stand up against the untold glories that lie before us? Bring it on, God! We will embrace it because it is from you.

While God may appear to be changing the rules on us in these final days, that is only because of our interpretation of His "rules." As we learn to trust Him more and more, we stop worrying about that. We stop looking for the boundaries, the lines that we have believed and boldly declared God would never cross or make us cross. We need to look up and walk where He says, when He says. He hasn't changed; He is only beginning to show you more of himself.

A Very Timely Prophetic Word From Teresa Seputis:

Child of Mine, I am calling you to walk closer to Me than you have done before. This means you are going to have to reevaluate your priorities and give Me a larger portion of your leisure time. You will need to change your schedule around so that you can spend quality time with Me each day. Child, we must have that daily time together, and it must be quality time. I want you to come to Me when you are fresh and alert, not when you are tired and exhausted and unable to concentrate on the things that I want to show you. I want you to seek Me for My will for your day, and I want you to grow in your knowledge of Me. We can't build a closer and deeper relationship together if you do not spend time with Me.

Remember to Pray For Our Troops in Iraq!

There is still so much danger to our troops in Iraq, and we as Christians hold the Keys of the Kingdom in our hands and our prayers. Bind every American soldier and support staff member in Iraq to God's will and purposes. Bind the Iraqi people to God's will and purposes. Loose the works of the enemy from them.

We still have some Fear Not Soldiers Packets available for sending to soldiers in Iraq. This includes Liberty's book Fear Not America and a small, laminated pocket prayer for the soldiers. Bridge Logos Publishers and Kinkos donated these gifts and LSM is providing the postage. Just contact our office by phone, snail mail, or e-mail and give us names and addresses. These packets will be mailed as having come from you.

Don't ever become complacent about the sacrifice these men and women are making.

One More Look At Love

God loves us unconditionally and He asks us to love one another like He loves us. This is lovely, indeed, but how do we know exactly what love is or isn't? Here is another look at LOVE, as found in 1 Corinthians 13:4-8 in the Amplified Bible:

- LOVE endures long and is patient and kind
- LOVE is never envious or jealous
- LOVE is not boastful or vainglorious
- LOVE does not display itself haughtily.
- LOVE is not conceited (arrogant, inflated with pride)
- LOVE is not rude or unmannerly
- LOVE never insists on its own rights or its own way
- LOVE is not self-seeking
- LOVE is not touchy or fretful or resentful
- LOVE takes no account of the evil done to it
- LOVE pays no attention to a suffered wrong
- LOVE never rejoices at injustice and unrighteousness
- LOVE rejoices when right and truth prevail.
- LOVE bears up under everything that comes
- LOVE is ever ready to believe the best of every person
- LOVE's hopes are fadeless under all circumstances
- LOVE endures everything without weakening
- LOVE never becomes obsolete or comes to an end

This kind of love is not humanly possible through an effort of the will. We must learn to understand that God's love is all the above, plus it never judges or keeps records, it is filled with grace and mercy, and it pardons and forgives anyone who needs pardoning and forgiveness. Neither you nor I can ever say we don't need pardoning and forgiveness again and again. Practice the above scriptural guidelines the best you can every day to learn how love acts and what love looks like. Thank God over and over for His mighty, unconditional love that He wants to pour through you so that you can love with His love.

Who Are You Looking For?

A former street person, Joe, spent much of his life at the mission house dedicating himself to helping Jesus rescue others from darkness. He spent every waking hour with men and women on the street. He talked with them when no one else would give them the time of day. He fed them, cared for them, loved them, and provided for their needs. He told them that if they ever needed anything, they could find him at the mission. He would always be there for them.

One day, one of Joe's "disciples" stumbled into the mission looking for him. A counselor met him at the door. The bedraggled man asked, "Is Joe here?"

"What does he look like?" the counselor asked.

"You know. Joe's the one who gives us something to eat when we're hungry. He gives us water when we're thirsty. He brings us medicine when we're sick.

He's the one who listens to us, cares for us and loves us just the way we are. You know...Joe."

The counselor replied, "You're not looking for Joe. You're looking for Jesus."

Question About How To Write A Book

Dear Liberty, I read both your books about three years ago and they made such an impression on me then. We recently installed satellite TV and I've been listening to you on GOD TV. I watched about four sessions at 09:00 on a Saturday morning (Cape Town, Africa time) before I realized who you are. I couldn't wait to get your books out of the church library again. I've decided to buy them when I get paid. Your e-newsletter is wonderful!

The eyes of my mind are a lot more opened and enlightened. I have a broader understanding of what's been going on in my life and I have the tools I need to get victory. Your teaching is very practical and user-friendly. I've only prayed that Breaking the Power Page 30 prayer a few times and, wow, God is really working! He is cleaning me from the inside out, making room for blessing.

Keep up the good work in your ministry and may our good Lord abundantly bless you. I feel like I know you. You talk right into my heart every Saturday and your words of wisdom resonate with my soul. God has told me to write a book—how do I get started? Abigail, Cape Town, South Africa

ANSWER: Thank you for such an encouraging letter! You made my Monday a bit brighter and made me a bit more resolved to go forth in the knowledge that it really is all worthwhile. Regarding your book, just start typing on your computer. Just start what I call a stream of consciousness, recording memories, thoughts, fears, victories, failures and ALL of your feelings about them.

Also, try to decide WHY you think anybody would want to read your book or WHY you should write the book. Don't be vague or general, such as you just want to bless people, or your friends told you that you should. You need to know that you have some great idea of WHY you are doing all this work. Once you think you get the WHY, type it out and stick it on the corner of your computer monitor. Let it be your "missions statement" that will give consistency to everything when you finally put it all together.

My "missions statement" for my first book, Shattering Your Strongholds, was this: To tell people about the power of the Keys of the Kingdom in Matthew 16:19. My "missions statement" for Breaking the Power was: To tell people about how the unsundered soul works, and how their unmet needs, unhealed hurts, and unresolved issues were crippling their walk with God.

Don't worry about spelling or grammar at first, don't worry about flow, and don't worry about chapters. Do try to date each change of thought if you can—like this: “this happened when I was 10 (or 20 or 32)” or “this happened about the time my mother had her back operation” or “this happened right after I got engaged.”

Eventually, you will begin to see clusters of thoughts get ideas about chapter breakdowns. Then just start cutting and pasting the different remembrances into chapter documents. Don't worry about organizing each chapter's contents at first or naming the chapters just right. You can just give them names that allow you to understand their meanings, such as Chapter 1: My big crisis; 2. My early days; 3. My worst fears; etc. Most people never get their books written because they try to perfect everything as they go. That can sap the creativity flow of anybody!

I don't know how the authors of the Bible's books ever did it; I don't know how Shakespeare and Hemingway did it; but I know that word processors are a writer's best friends. The beauty of computers is that you can move things from chapter to chapter; you can cut and paste your little heart out. God will help you if you always pray before you start to work. Stay in the Word and stay in prayer as you are doing this. Hope this helps, Liberty

Questions and Liberty's Answers

QUESTION: (This e-mail was greatly edited because of negative content). Liberty, I have read your books and am thankful to you for letting God speak to me through them. My boyfriend has a daughter and he shares joint custody of her with his remarried ex-wife, but she has not allowed him to see her. I believe there are demonic influences in their home. She is very mean to this little girl, and she neglects her badly. I could tell you so many horror stories of her neglect, lies, and abuse. I think she is just a terrible person and doesn't deserve her daughter. How do you feel we should pray so we can get this little girl away from her? Gaby

Gaby: You first need to stop rehearsing all that you believe this mother has done. You need to pray for her and her husband, instead of cursing them with your hard words. You need to bind everyone involved (that includes you and your boyfriend) to God's will and purposes. You need to bind everyone's mind to the mind of Christ. You need to bind the emotions of everyone involved to the healing balance of the Holy Spirit. You need to loose the word curses you have spoken (harsh, cruel words, whether partially true or completely untrue), the effects and influences of your wrong agreements, and all wrong ideas and beliefs from everyone involved.

You need to loose the works of the enemy from everyone involved, and you need to loose all self-motives and self-agendas from everyone involved. Ask God to protect this little girl, and then ask God to purify your motives and use you to be a blessing. You are not helping anyone by the attitude you have fallen into regarding the little girl, or her mother. I feel you do have a good heart towards your boyfriend's daughter, and I will pray that her best welfare will become the center of everyone's dealings in this matter.

Gaby's follow up e-mail: I have prayed about your response, Liberty, and the Lord said that I do have a bad attitude. I've asked Him to forgive me and I ask you to forgive me. I am praying and loosing this attitude from myself. I am binding my will and all of our wills to God's will, and I am praying what you said to pray. I believe God will do what He knows best.

QUESTION: In my church we have really been moving in the supernatural recently (praise God) and we have seen a number of people healed and lives changed. However we have two people who suffer from a condition called “Chronic Fatigue Syndrome.” They have been prayed for a great number of times. We see people healed around them when there is prayer, but we don't see any victory for them.

I have read some of your books and they have really helped me in my prayer ministry (I lead an intercession group in my church). I am called to pray for these two people on a regular basis. To be very honest, these two people both very sensitive, tending to be over dramatic, and somewhat insecure. I would really appreciate some feedback on how we should be praying into this situation. God Bless ANSWER: Paul: I believe that there is a link between Chronic Fatigue Syndrome and the soul's attempts to protect itself when others get too close to its fears and pain. Physical fatigue, discouragement, fuzzy thinking, and some forms of depression can have their origin in the unsundered soul that is on the defensive. If you are just praying the general (if there is such a thing!) form of the binding and loosing prayers regarding binding their minds to the mind of Christ and their emotions to the healing balance of the Holy Spirit while loosing wrong thinking, the effects and influences of wrong agreements, and word curses from their souls, you will be helping them.

The most effective help, of course, is when you can get them to pray the prayers for themselves. The good thing about “general” binding and loosing prayers is that the unsundered soul won’t always pick up on what is actually being prayed or on what is about to happen to it. This allows the unsundered soul to be gently changed without it having backlashes as it would if someone was confronting its problems head on. Liberty

QUESTION: Where does it say in the Word of God that we can loose Satan’s assignments over us? Wanda.

ANSWER: Wanda: First John 3:8 says that Jesus came to destroy the works of the devil. That word destroy is exactly the same word that means loose in the Greek—luo. If Jesus came to destroy/loose/luo the works of the devil, then I choose to also destroy/loose/luo his works, his assignments, and his influence over my life and over the lives of others. My Kingdom Key (Matthew 16:19) of loosing may or may not be all-encompassing in the manner I know how to use it (Jesus’ destruction was an all-encompassing act of destroying the works of the enemy), but I do believe that we can really mess with Satan’s plans with our loosing key. Liberty

QUESTION: My cousin has two boys, one is now turning 17. He is giving her a terrible time, having linked up with the wrong crowd. He is extremely rebellious, challenges every word she says, and even throws “tantrums” if he doesn’t get his way. He refuses to go with her to church anymore, saying why should he. He shows no respect whatsoever toward being a Christian while he is smoking and listening to the most ghastly music. He used to be so loving, kind, and considerate. Betty

ANSWER: Betty, I recommend that you read the Testimonies, the Questions and Answers by Liberty, and the Difficult Issues Articles on my website. I think they will give you a broad overview of how the unsundered soul acts up and how to pray for another person whose soul is acting up. Teens go through all kinds of things and sometimes prayer is the only thing that works—prayer and love and acceptance.

Also pray with the “ripple” effect—in other words, pray for all of the kids around this young man. Bind them all to God’s will and the mind of Christ while loosing the deception of the world from them. Bind their minds to the mind of Christ and loose deception and denial from them. Bind their wounded emotions to the healing balance of the Holy Spirit and loose word curses and criticisms and judgments from them. Then try to show love to any of them you run into. Liberty

QUESTION: This fighting with the soul is such a war. I have heard that I will have a battle in flesh, but this is a stinking war. Liberty, I seemed to be stuck at the front line and not gaining any ground. I do recognize that my flesh doesn’t want me to pray these prayers daily as you have previously suggested. Sometimes I am unable for one reason or another to pray the training wheel prayers at all. Is there anything that the Lord may be sharing with you that I am not doing that can speed up this process? I have woken up for weeks with an ache in my stomach. I know that this is a soulish war and I want it to quit so I can get lined up with the Lord and get on with life, I am tired of this. Please help me. Dan

ANSWER: Dan, you cannot afford not to pray these prayers with the battle you are having. This is a case of whether or not you want your soul to be controlling your life or you want to walk with God and experience all He wants you to have and do. Which do you really want? You should be praying more than one of the binding and loosing prayers every day—even several times a day. You should particularly be praying the page 30 prayer in Breaking the Power at least once a day for 30 days. You say you feel you are in a war with these prayers.

This is not a big bloody, splashy type of war I’m suggesting—it is more of an “in-the-trenches, guerilla-type” of warfare. I’m promising you that a consistent effort to pray these prayers every day—with focus on every word you are saying as you pray—will thoroughly unsettle and weaken your soul’s temptations to give up as well as its defense mechanisms that are trying to discourage you. Back this consistent praying up with reading the Word and meditating on it. These prayers are powerful, but the Word is very powerful in reinforcing your choices to pray. Such a commitment will begin to break down in your soul’s control structure.

I agree that you are in a war—a war to wear you down, a war to slowly and subtly overthrow your efforts to be free. Your soul will throw at you whatever it knows will work best in defeating you—and trust me, the enemy will also work to bring into the war whatever he knows has defeated you in the past. So, when you feel angry, discouraged, or frustrated—pray even more of the binding and loosing prayers, read even more of the Word, stay before the Lord even more. You don’t have to fight Goliath, you don’t have to scale mountains, you don’t even have to do hand-to-hand combat with demons. You just have to consistently pray the prayers and back them up with the Word. God will make it clear what to do once you have some consistency in that. Remember, pray these prayers with focus and with determination. Liberty

QUESTION: Once you realize you have been in an emotionally abusive relationship, and leave (with a baby), and the abuser isn’t aware of or will not take responsibility for his actions, is it your responsibility to make him aware of his abuse and advise treatment or should you let him get it on his own? Either way, I have chosen not to return to this relationship, but I want to make sure that I am doing all I should to put a peaceful end to this unhealthy soul tie.

ANSWER: You can say a prayer for the abuser whenever the thought comes to your mind—bind his will to God’s will, bind his mind to the mind of Christ, and bind his emotions to the healing balance of the Holy Spirit. The prayer principles of binding and loosing, as used here, are taken from Matthew 16:19. Then loose (smash, crush, and destroy) his wrong patterns of thinking, wrong beliefs, and wrong attitudes. Also loose the enemy’s works from him. Loose all soul ties you have ever formed with this person because of unmet needs in your own life. Stay in the Word of God and keep your prayer life strong. The Lord will guide you through the best way to resolve the issue you have described. Liberty

QUESTION: I am a forty-six year old male, and I have been born again nearly four years now. I used to smoke a lot and take all kinds of drugs. I drank for over ten years. I was delivered from smoking and drugs and drinking in a mighty way by God. I was led to your book, Shattering Your Strongholds. I have read it twice, and my wife and I have been praying the binding and loosing prayers. I have been praying them for myself as I used to be addicted to pornography. I have not watched any porn for three years now or even been interested in it. But my dreams can be horrible, very sexual nasty things. I keep thinking they are gone, but then another one comes that is even worse. How can this be stopped? Could you help me, please? Matthew

ANSWER: You are on the right track with the prayers in Shattering Your Strongholds. There is a residue of the pornography in your soul even though you have stopped viewing it. Your dreams are a sign that your soul is feeling desperate about something that is painful and stressful to you, and it wants to cause you to return to the pornography because it temporarily gave your soul some relief.

I suggest that you read the Difficult Issue Position Paper on my website on this following page:

http://www.libertysavard.com/keys_difficult_pornography.html

I think it will give you some understanding. I also suggest that you read the Bible, at least two chapters, and pray one of the binding and loosing prayers before you go to bed at night. This will help you prepare your soul before you go to sleep. Include in whatever prayer that you pray, “I bind my emotions to the healing balance of the Holy Spirit, and I loose, smash, crush, and destroy the effects and influences of wrong agreements that I have accepted.” Matthew, I prayed for you tonight. Liberty

I have read your book Shattering Your Strongholds and I have already seen answered prayers!! I can’t wait to finish the whole series. I am at a point in my life where I have realized some of my dreams by driving myself toward success—getting my BS in Accounting, getting my MBA, and building a successful career. Along the way I believe I have hurt God by turning my back on Him, hurt my family by being self-absorbed, and who knows the countless number of people I stomped on along the way in order to achieve my “Dreams.” I now realize how futile this all is before God and how unfulfilling this is deep within my soul. I kept thinking, “I’ll be happy once I achieve this goal or get this job or get this promotion,” but happiness for me never came because it seemed like once I achieved whatever it was, it wasn’t enough.

I have been attending church for a little over a year now while trying to figure out what God’s plan for my life is and where I should focus my attention. Once I started seriously seeking God, I felt like I was being spiritually attacked—at home, at my job, and then it seemed my whole world started to crumble. I kept asking God, “Why is this happening? I thought you said you would protect me and not harm me?” I think God wanted to show me that I needed to rely solely on Him and not on my own devices. I finally resigned from a highly prestigious position at my workplace because God urged me to, which at the time I didn’t quite understand but I obeyed.

My mother lent me your book because she knew I was getting frustrated trying to make the Holy Spirit speak to me and trying so hard to hear God. After reading and studying numerous books I knew that something was missing in my prayers, and I felt like I was hitting wall after wall. My mother kept suggesting that I pray the binding and loosing prayers which made no sense to me.

After reading and re-reading your book, I finally “get” it! You would think that someone with my education would understand something so simple, but my unsundered soul had so much junk in it that my natural mind didn’t register this simple understanding. To my amazement, my prayers were being answered! My faith abounded, my mindset changed, my attitudes altered and now I know God hears my prayers. Your website is so awesome! It’s so encouraging to read some of the testimonies there.

Thank you for writing this life and soul changing book.

Testimonies

Dearest Sister Liberty, GOD BLESS YOU. Thank you for sharing God’s wonderful revelation with me through the GOD Channel in India. You have opened my eyes. I need to learn much, much more. Keep telling us more. Ashima, Delhi, India

Thank you, Liberty. You just never know whom you are helping or how or where it is happening when you follow God's call in your ministry, do you? We have never met, yet through your books, my family is beginning to experience freedom. Through the technology of this age, we can communicate and pray for each other and possibly never meet on this planet! What an amazing thing!

Again, thank you for answering God's call and just know that you have touched the family of someone you may never meet. The blessings of this will pass through that family to other generations and friends and neighbors. Sean and Sandy

I finished a Shattering Your Strongholds group earlier this year. My husband and I started doing a Shattering Your Strongholds couples group here in New Zealand just two weeks ago. I have seen the most dramatic change in my husband in only two weeks. We had a complete break in our relationship with my family a year ago. Because I started the SYS course soon after this breakup, I have been able to pray the binding and loosing prayers, forgive them, and pray God's best for them.

After starting the couples' course and praying for ONE WEEK, my husband told me he believed it was God's will and timing for us to do the course because he felt God was going to ask us to go back where my family is and "set the captives free." This is truly a miracle because less than a month ago my husband said he would NEVER set foot in their house again.

Praise God and may He bless you abundantly more than you could ever hope for or imagine. I am so thankful He revealed the truth to you about the Keys of the Kingdom, and that you took it on board and have now taught me and so many others how to be free. Sherry, New Zealand

A thank you and an update. A few years ago my wife requested prayer as we were going through our worst fear. Problems with our sons had removed them from our home. Today we are a family again, and our sons have both just been accepted to attend ORU. Our gratitude is deep first to the King of Kings and then to Liberty for her obedience in writing the Keys of the Kingdom/Unsurrendered Soul series. This trilogy is a cornerstone and one of three teachings that saved our lives and family. Thank you is not enough but it is what we have at this time. Joe and Bonnie

Binding and Loosing Tips So You Don't Pray Amiss

1. You have not been given these Keys of the Kingdom prayer principles so that you can cause things to come into alignment with your will. These keys to effective prayer are to cause your soul to surrender to God's will for your life.
2. Using these prayer keys will keep you in alignment with God's purposes which help you walk in truth and strength.
3. Using these prayer keys help you to see things in the Word of God that you never saw before. This is because you are loosing things that have caused you to have rigid misconceptions about His Word.
4. Using these prayer keys will help you overcome emotional ups and downs. Bind your raggedy emotions to the healing balance of the Holy Spirit.
5. Praying these prayers for others can bring an awareness into their lives that God does love them and He wants to help them. These prayers will never force them to become cookie cutter Christians.

This ministry believes the Scriptures are inspired of God, infallible, and fully authoritative for Christian faith and conduct. Jesus Christ, the Son of God, was born of a virgin, lived a sinless life on Earth, died on the cross in a substitutionary work of redemption for mankind, rose again and now sits at the right hand of the Father. Through Christ's shed blood and renewal of the Holy Ghost, justified by grace through faith, man becomes an heir of God with absolute hope of eternal life.

This ministry teaches Christians how to cause their unsundered souls (old natures) to surrender to the will and purposes of God. LSM also teaches Christians how to loose emotional baggage from their souls to create room within themselves to receive all God has promised to them. This allows them to fulfill their destinies while walking in knowledge and power to bring glory and honor to God the Father! This ministry also teaches God's people how to pray with the Keys of the Kingdom (Matthew 16:19) to impact things on earth so that they come into alignment with God's already established will in heaven. This ministry is also dedicated to training Christians how to pray purely without "want lists" and instruction manuals for God (so He will know how best to answer the prayers!). Effective prayers with pure motives declare that God's will shall be done on Earth as He has so set it in heaven.
